- ❖ Welcome by Deirdre and introductions made around the room.
- ❖ What can your program do to continue the forward momentum, in spite of the 40% budget cut? What is your hope?
 - Dennison Memorial, Joe Neves- Dennison Memorial is a resource for kids, offering a computer room, tutors and gymnasium. He hopes for more collaboration and funding; prevention is an important piece of the collaborative.
 - YouthBuild, Donald France- The biggest challenge is making education more appealing. Kids come to the classroom educationally battered. The study plan is a combination of independent and group study; constantly experimenting with approach. Need more Spanish speaking teachers. 53 H.O.P.E. kids entered program; 11 earned GEDs and four are registered.
 - Chuck Smiler- There should be on-line access for a resource directory that would assist with community collaboration. More awareness of violence against women.
 - New Directions, Steve Martins- Address has changed from Purchase to Dover Street; one stop career center for youth. Our hope is to provide more workshops, more collaborative efforts in order to service more youth.
 - Community Boating, Jeannie Paradise- Continue sharing resources. CBC offers year round after school programs.
 - IAC, Philomene Tavares, Case management/ support system for non-English speaking youth and their families.
 - IAC, Helena Marques- In April 2009, the "Amigos Multi-Cultural Center" program at Roosevelt was formed providing support, mentors and translators. 96% of the faculty do not speak another language, which is an obstacle. IAC is working with foreign exchange students from BCC and UMass.
 - NBPS, Denise Gaudette- She would like to share her data; a historical perspective of trends in students, grades 7 – 12.
 - Melissa Pacheco, UMass- Collaboration, identify resources through the university.

- PAACA, Terri Belliveau- Youth Court- Working on a new Fall River initiative with our Shannon partner. Partnership with ICC for clinical support.
- NorthStar, Marco DeBrito- "Have dreams, believe in dreams and achieve it".
- NorthStar, Maria Mojica- Collaborate and reach out to more families.
- Community Connections, Darlene Spencer- Further collaboration, work with families using a more holistic approach. Integration of services to raise awareness of the need for parent support. We have woven a web, how do we strengthen it? How do parents get this information? What is out there?
